If the Dwyers had not started Fordham, who was great favorite in the Falcon Stakes, they might have won with Prospect, from whom nothing was expected, and who was run merely to aid Fordham, but was earely beaten by a rank outsider, little Larchmont, from the Preakness Stable, well ridden by Shauer. If Prospect had been ridden all the way with care and judgment without regard to Fordham's chances he ould hardly have falled to get first place. Fordham hard to outrun in deep mud, but is only a cart-horse on a fast track. He was giving away much weight to a wretched lot of beasts, and when McLaughlin called on him he promptly passed out of the game. Dessie June was withdrawn from the first race, and Cyclops, the favorite, won after a sharp finish with Monmouth, a three-year-old colt of rare breeding (Mortemer-Spinaway) but of no speed last year.

Cyclops is not fit for a hard race yet, nor is Kaloolah.

She was in trouble half a mile from the end of second race and falled to get a place, Brown Duke winning easily. By the way, Brown Duke's improvement since last week is stupefying.

When the flag fell Malaria had the lead, but Marsh Redon snatched it from her and made the running to the finish, winning by three-quarters of a length, Malaria six lengths winning by three-quarters of a length, Malaria six lengths before P. Thomas, third. It looked to many as if Malaria could have won if her jockey had made an effort. Marsh Reton seemed ready to drop in the last dozen strides. There was no bid for the old gelding.

THE ENTRIES FOR TO-DAY.

The great attraction of to-day will be the meeting of Raceland, Sir Dixon, Emperor of Norfolk, Fitzjames and Tennyson in the Brooklyn Derby, one mile and a quarier. After his victory in the Cariton Stakes Sir Dixon will probably be the favorite with Emperer of Norhas run well this year. All the entries will ind support.
Mr. Haggin's powerful stable will be represented both by Fitzjames and Tennyson. It will be a well-fought race, But I believe that on a fast track (and the track will be fast to-day) and well ridden, Raceland can beat the lof for speed at the inish and he ought to be able to go a mile and a quarter even if he should prove feeble at a cup distance.
So I vote for Raceland first, and as I never had any doubt that McLaughlin is a better rider than Isaac Murphy, I think Sir Dixon will be second. Fitzjames is a good colt, too, and may make a bold bid at the finish.

Banburg should win the Lawnview Handicap, Favor second, although Bessie June, Belvidere and Fenelon must all be marked dangerous.

Give the first race to Fitzroy, Dry Monopole second.

The second race-Mollie McCarthy's Last to win, Wickham for the place.

The fifth race-Harrisburg first, second place doubtful.

TO VOTE FOR BISHOPS TO-DAY. CHANCES OF VARIOUS CANDIDATES.

SOME GUESSES FROM WELL-INFORMED DELEGATES

-A SHORT SESSION. A feverish interest marked the proceedings of the Methodist Episcopal Conference yesterday. Delegates and their friends circulated actively in the lobbles, but it was generally agreed that all the canvassing had been done for the various candidates for Bishops and few votes will be changed until after severa ballots have been taken to-day.

Representatives of THE TRIBUNE who applied to leading ministers and laymen of the more prominent delegations for their estimate of the result of the first ballot received some interesting replies. A minister of high official station, who had no opinion of his own but merely expressed the views of others, put down Vincent, Cranston, Goodsell, Fitzgerald and King. A prominent delegate from New-York, whose opportuities of knowing the temper and feeling of delerates are the equal of any in the Conference, selected Vincent, Goodsell, Cranston, King and Fitzgerald.

A well-known Southern member, a leader in this and former conferences gave the names of Vincent, Cranston, Fitzgerald, Goodsell and Newman. One of the ablest of the lay members, who comes from beyond the Mississippi, said Vincent, Cranston, Goodsell, King and Puzzerald. A delegate from Ohio, whose name is among the honored ones of the denomination, picked out Vincent, Cranston, Goodsell, Fitzgerald and Paine. the five who would finally be elected were Vincent, Cranston, Goodsell, Buttz and Paine. He thought it possible, however, that only three would be chosen, and that it would be simply impossible to elect the other two under the operation of the two-thirds rule, A layman, who is said to have a genius for such calculations, thought there could be little question as to the names of the five who would lead the poll. Vincent, Cranston, Goodsell, Fitzgerald and King would be the men. But regarding the election he did not feel so certain. The chances, he thought, were that Vincent would be chosen on the first ballot and that The chances, he thought, were that Cranston and Goodsell would be elected to-day. On the first ballot to-morrow he thought it likely Fitzgerald would be chosen, and then the contest would be narrowed down to King and some man like Paine or Joyce, of Ohio, or Upham, of New-England. sides the bishops, two book agents, five secretaries and elever, editors are to be elected.

The Committee on Missions reported that in view of a memorial and petition from the Indian and Malay of a memorial and petition from the Indian and Malay Conferences, it was thought advisable to recommend the appointment of a missionary bishop for that district. The proposition gave rise to some discussion, but the Conference was plainly not ready to make the discussion final. One of the objections urged was that the payment of two missionary bishops from the Episcopal Fund under the report adopted on Saturday would make that fund insufficient to meet the demands of the Episcopacy. In relation to delegates to the next Ecumenical Conference it was decided that the General Conference should assume no financial obligations. A proposition that such obligations should be paid by the flook Concern provoked a strong attack from the Rev. Dr. J. S. Smart, of Detroit. The Committee on Itinerancy reported on a plan for the organization of new Annual Conferences in the West. One delegate said that this was demanded by the frontier churches, where the ministers were often obliged to watch all night with rifle in hand for self-defense and preach the next day after riding a score of miles.

There was a false alarm of fire at Hester and Mott sts. about 3 p. m., when the children were leaving the public schools. Little Howard Dalton, age six years, was on his way home and was passing the engine house in Marion-st., when the doors were flung open and Engine No. 20 dashed out to answer the alarm. Fireman Martin Tracy, who was driving the spirited team in front of the engine, saw the boy too late to avert the disaster. MRS, SCOFIELD HAS TO PAY.

SHE PLEADS POVERTY, BUT HER UPHOLSTERERS

FINALLY GET THEIR MONEY.

Mrs. Lillian E. Scofield re-appeared yesterday morning almost as suddenly as she disappeared several days ago. She called on De Lancey Nicoli, one of her lawyers, and then on Jerome Buck, who is Ferris's Mr. Buck says that she was sent to him about the Solomon case, and he advised her to compromise with the upholaterers, who had a judgment against her for $278. Mrs. Scofield accepted Mr. Buck's advice, and went to the ante-chamber of the Judge's private room of the City Court. The two law yers, Jacob Marx and Nathaniel Ellis, representing B. L. Solomon's Sons, were there and Mrs. Scoffeld tried to persuade them to settle for $160. The lawyers would not hear of it. Their refusal excited her so much that she finally exclaimed: "I am without home, without name, and persecuted." Then she went on to deny that she had any money to her credit with W. T. Hatch & Co., but she gave in when she was reminded of the fact that Arthur M. Hatch had testified on Saturday that she had a balance of $12,000. This she admitted, but her resources were by no means exhausted, for she proposed to the law-yers this conundrum: "Suppose that I should tell you that there was a judgment against me of finally gave a check for $342 21, the full amount and interest. After that she went to No. 1,420 Broadway, where she is said to be living with a friend.

Coroner Levy sont the papers in the Hatch case yesterlay afternoon to the District-Attorney's office, with a request that the case be submitted to the Grand Jury. Assistant District-Attorney Bedford said that the case would be presented to the Grand Jury as a matter of form, certainly, and if it fell to him to do it he should endeavor to have the case dismissed. Jerome Buck said that he should ask the District-Attorney to-day to cancel Ferris's bond of $5,000.

ARGUING OVER A DEMURRER OF JAY GOULD. Argument was heard by Justice O'Brien in the Supreme Court Special Term, on the demurrer of Jay Gould and George J. Gould to the complaint in the suit against them and others, brought by Eugene Kelly as assignee of the Milmo National Bank of Laredo, Texas, to recover on two drafts, one for $12,354 11 and the other for $22,000 drawn by B. S. Wathen on J. H. Work as secretary of the Southwest Construction Company, and payable to the order of the bank. The drafts were paid by the bank, and the proceeds were used partly to pay bank, and the proceeds were used parily to pay Hunter, Sampsel & Wells, contractors, for work done in constructing relifronds, in which the defend-ents were interested, in Mexico, the balance being retained by Wather for engineering expenses. The defendants aver that the complaint doe not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action; that there is a defect of parities defendant, and that the causes of action have been improperly joined.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKETS.

FEATURES OF NEW-YORK DEALINGS. The built party in wheat was swamped yesterday, and prices went down heavily under a rush of realizations. The speculative situation had been gradually weakening under a wider distribution of holdings, and it only needed a collapse at the West to precipitate a stampede to get out" here. In wheat there was a combination of condi-"get out" here. In wheat there was a combination of condi-tions which helped to stimulate the unloading process—en-couraging weather advices from the West, tame .European cables and good reports from foreign crops, and a decided disappointment at the visible supply statement. The bulls had been bragging of a heavy decrease, some enthusiasts placing their estimates as high as 2,000,000 bushels. The actual failing off was shown to be 249,543 bushels. Wheat options opened down 1-233-4 cent under Saturday's official figures, and the decime continued to the end, on a large volume of transactions, broken only by occasional railies on covering of shorts. The market closed weak at about bottom prices, and down 2 1-362 1-4 cents as follows: May, 95 3-8; June, 94 7-8; July, at about bottom prices, and down 2 1-822 1-4 cents as follows: May. 95 3-8; June, 94 7-8; July, 95 1-8; August, 93 3-4; September, 93 7-8; December, 96 1-2 cents. The cash market was down 1 cent, and, including some loads taken late on Saturday on the casic tendency of values, the expert engagements reached nearly 130,000 bushels.

Spot corn was reduced 1-2-2 cent, but only 10,000 bushels were taken by shippers. The options naturally went the way of wheat, and the close was heavy at losses from Saturday's official close of 3 for May at 63 1-2, 2 1-3 for June and 2 3-4 for July at 62 1-2, and 2 3-4 cents for August and September at 62 8-8 cents. The weakness of the day extended to cats, but without stirring speculation or cash business. The options ended down 1 3-8 for May at 37 3-4, 1 5-8 for June at 37 3-4 and July at for June and 2 3-4 for July at 62 1-2, and 2 3-4 for May at 37 3-4, 1 3-8 for June at 37 3-4 and 11-4 cent for September at 33 1-4 cents. THE PETROLEUM MARKET

NEWS FROM THE FIELD AND RANGE OF PRICES. The chief feature of the crude certificate market year terday was duliness. There was little disposition to buy in view of the situation in the Fergus pool—some traders terday was dulness. There was little disposition to duy in view of the situation in the Fergus pool—some traders fearing that the torpedoing of the wells recently brought in and the opening of some new ones may unfavorably affect the temporary market, while others are willing to wait for a possible recession in the hope of making their purchases as cheaply as possible. Yet on the narrow movement of business, values were fairly steady above 50 cents most of the time, and the net loss of the day was only 5-S cent. In the main the speculative temper remains favorable to a better basis, but the speculation lacks aggressive leaders. The large operators are not prone to hazard serious operations on the boar side for the sake of a possible 2 or 3 cents downward turn, because the bulk of certificates are firmly held and the promise of future conditions is believed to be encouraging by most conservative members of the trade.

A circular by Watson & Gibson on the petroleum situation calls for a passing notice at the moment, and we may refer to it more fully hereafter. One main point made by this house against a rise is that the 6,000,000 barrels set aside under the shut-down scheme for the benefit of the saide under the shut-down scheme for the benefit of the this house against 2 rise is that the control of the aside under the shut-down scheme for the benefit of the producers is "a constant menace to the market," because no one knows how much has been sold or when is will be no one knows how much has been sold or when is will be no one knows how much has been sold or when is will be no one knows how much has been sold or when is will be not the new terms of the new no one knows how much has been sold or when it will be. As to this, the next five months are excellent ones for the consumptive season, and with the production down to the figures now existing the reduction of stocks will nearly provide for this oil set-apart. Moreover, it is yet to be proved whether the associated producers cannot arrange for taking up this oil at the end of the shut-in period and carrying it as long as they please. As regards any serious increase in production by removing the restrictions of the shut-down, "The Tribune" fully covered this point is Monday's issue.
